      Dorr also shared a reminder that the Boise Comic Arts Festival is upcoming. For the first time, there is a waitlist for Librarians & Educators Day as all spots filled early September.

      Dorr responded to a question from Trustees regarding the Director’s Report and water damage that occurred at the Main Library. Due to construction and inclement weather, damage is being covered by the vendor’s insurance. Dorr advised the Board they should anticipate a possible interim budget change request in the future.

6. Old Business
   a. FY23 Summer Learning Program
      Brittsan discussed the Elementary & Secondary School Emergency Relief Summer Strategies Grant funded by the Idaho Commission for Libraries and objectives that were accomplished. Consistent staffing not only improved outreach but allowed for story time and literacy programs. High interest titles were also purchased thanks to the funds provided for the Summer Learning Program.
Radford spoke to the community partnerships that were developed and strengthened. Boise City Parks & Recreation Playcamps, the International Rescue Committee, and Boise Community Schools were amongst those mentioned. Radford reported that they expect to continue to see opportunities grow throughout the year and hope to see those partnerships improve the ability of the Library to reach underserved students.

Trustees questioned how the program can continue due to limited funding. Radford responded that the hope is to package summer reading and learning opportunities to continue to capitalize on partnerships now that they’ve been built. Dorr commented that there is a focus on strategies to accomplish this. The community wants the library to lead in the education space, making sure students are ready to read and have summer enrichment programs.

7. New Business
   a. Citizens for a Library in West Boise
      Mark Salisbury shared information about the mission of the Citizens for a Library in West Boise and the petition that was produced. Salisbury presented data that compared physical library access for five different regions across the City of Boise. West Boise was highlighted as having the largest disparity in terms of proximity for library access.

      Jennifer Gravel presented ideas for action that would involve consideration of leasing vacant office and/or retail space, working with West Ada School District, Garden City Public Library, Ada Community Libraries or Meridian Library District with the current resources available. Gravel emphasized that they feel urgency for this focus due to the Modern Zoning Code.

      The Board thanked Salisbury and Gravel for their interest in seeing the library grow. Trustees stated that the group provided useful ideas about what can reasonably be done to make progress. Trustees posed a question for Dorr concerning the logistics that would need to be considered, as well as financial costs. Dorr confirmed the Library would consider these ideas and responded that locating facilities that are safe, welcoming, and well-resourced is a shared concern, as well as how funding could be secured. Trustees shared both their own knowledge of the issue and commitment to thinking through the opportunities that might be available as well as the feeling of responsibility for creating a comprehensive and successful facilities plan following the recent failed Main Library project.

      Councilmember Hallyburton questioned if the group had any concerns regarding funding. Hallyburton stated that outreach efforts, donors, and grants would be useful next steps to consider.
